

ATTN: COURT WATCHERS NEEDED IN ARIZONA— PROTECTIVE PARENT ON TRIAL

COURT WATCHERS NEEDED

Justice needs witnesses. Arizona needs accountability.

We need eyes on Erin Gerlach's trial—every seat filled, every abuse witnessed, every lie recorded. This is not just one mother's fight. It's a chance to expose the system that abuses its power, retaliates against protective parents, places children in danger, and shields abusers.

WHY IT MATTERS

Erin protected her child. The system punished her for it. This trial is a flashpoint—a chance to reveal the collusion between judges, police, and abusers. We need court watchers to bear witness, document violations, and show the court that the public is watching.

PROTECTIVE PARENT ON TRIAL FOR CUSTODIAL INTERFERENCE

DEC 1, 2025 MARICOPA COUNTY SUPERIOR COURT — DOWNTOWN PHOENIX

Her crime? Protection. Erin Gerlach is being prosecuted for shielding her daughter from documented abuse by her ex—an Arizona police officer. The state calls it “custodial interference.” But this trial isn't about custody. It's about cover-ups, retaliation, and criminal misconduct by judicial officers and law enforcement.

Erin isn't just facing charges—she's exposing a system. This case will bring to light the misconduct buried in her custody battle: a court that punishes protective parents, judges who violate their oath, and police who weaponize their authority. What's been done to Erin and what's been hidden from public view is about to surface. Every tactic used to silence her is heading to open court. And once it's on the record, it can't be buried again.

The Davis Vanguard exposed a chilling truth: protective parents are punished, police misconduct is buried, and judges who commit crimes from the bench face no accountability. But that report was only the beginning.

Since its publication, the retaliation has intensified. Erin Gerlach has been harassed, threatened, intimidated, and targeted through a coordinated effort to silence her—not just for protecting her child, but for publicly exposing the misconduct in her custody case and the broader corruption infecting Arizona’s family court.

This trial is no longer about one mother. It’s about a system unraveling and the reckoning that’s coming. What’s been hidden is about to be forced into the light. And once it’s on the record, Arizona’s family court will never look the same.

This Trial is Bigger Than Erin. It’s About Every Protective Parent They’ve Silenced and Every Child Failed by Arizona's Family Court.
